How to Protect Your Carpet When Moving - Avoid Dents

Featured Articles January 18, 2019

How to Protect Carpet When Moving

How to protect your carpet when moving? You can use self-adhesive carpet film, plywood, or shoe booties to prevent any dents or wrinkles in your carpet.

(Newswire.net -- January 18, 2019) -- It is ideal for everything to be in immaculate condition once you start relocating to a new residence. However, it will be a tough task to keep your carpet clean, given that there are so many people involved in the process of shifting things from place to place and all the furniture that is being moved around as well. Below are some ways on how to protect carpet when moving so that your flooring doesn't get damaged.

How to Protect Your Carpet During a Move

Self-Adhesive Carpet Film

Purchasing a self-adhesive carpet film will be one of the most effective ways to protect your carpet during a shifting. These products which are made from plastic will help to cover the carpet with an on-slip and tear-free surface. Also, most of these products will not leave behind any adhesive residue that can damage the carpet. You will likewise find these products in different varieties and at different prices as well. You might also go for a paint roller-like applicator that will aid you in laying out the film. However, they are going to be somewhat expensive out there. In case it is not feasible for you to buy a plastic film, you may opt for blankets, bed sheets, towels or even drop-cloths to get the job done. If there is any old roll of carpet available, you can also cut them into strips and put them on the present carpet's top.

In spite of being quite inexpensive, these products mentioned above can easily bunch and thus make someone trip. Professional movers at Puget Sound Moving mention that this can be prevented by taping them down will the help of a blue painter's tape. In spite of this, you along with other people need to be meticulous while walking on them during the relocation.

Plywood

Plywood happens to be bigger than a refrigerator, freezer or washing machine. You may place it in your kitchen. Plywood sheets will likewise safeguard your flooring while moving given that you cannot depend on paper to get the job done. Paper is quite thin and will not be able to protect the carpet because of the appliances that feature sharp edges as compared to the sofas and couches.

Shoe Booties

In case you are concerned about dust, grime or grass stains more than a crunching pile of carpet, it will be prudent for all the movers out there to wear shoe covers for the initial few days of the relocation. For this, you need to purchase a big pack of inexpensive and disposable booties instead of a couple of pricey and resilient covers.

Conclusion

After reading this helpful article on how to protect carpet when moving, you will not find it difficult to accomplish the job in real life. You will find other effective methods to protect your carpet too. For this, feel free to go online and look at the relevant video clips and articles that will help you to enrich your knowledge on this particular niche. If you cannot do it on your own, do not hesitate to get in touch will a professional and reliable mover who will help you to safeguard your carpet flawlessly. There are many experts in your area, and make adequate research prior to choosing one.

Source: http://newswire.net/newsroom/blog-post/00107077-protect-carpet-when-moving.html