

Hen Do Accessories – Did Kate Middleton Kill The Hen Party?

Brian Parnall January 14, 2013

Hen Do Accessories

Kate Middleton had a quiet affair with her sister and a couple of friends for her hen do, instead of going out and partying the night away like most would, she decided she would have a very respectful girls night in, probably with a bottle of wine, some chocolate and a few DVD's.

(Newswire.net -- 14th January, 2013) Kate Middleton had a quiet affair with her sister and a couple of friends for her hen do, instead of going out and partying the night away like most would, she decided she would have a very respectful girls night in, probably with a bottle of wine, some chocolate and a few DVD's.

Owner of AK Promotions UK Ltd, Anil Kenth, when asked if Kate Middleton killed the hen do accessories market he replied "Absolutely not, if anything the Royal Wedding had a really positive impact on orders for Hen Party T Shirts and Hen Do Accessories". Mr. Kenth continued by stating "Amazingly, we are still finding that the Royal Wedding is impacting on the wedding season for 2013, with stag and hen night accessories and T Shirts being purchased a lot earlier than usual. It has been great for business, and long may it continue".

AK Promotions UK Ltd is a Birmingham based business that specialise in promotional items. The company deals from business to business but also to the public. One of the main items that are most popular at the moment with many customers are hen and stag do t-shirts, even though the Royal Wedding is over and done with now, it still gave off a big impact to those couples who are yet to be married.

AK Promotions are a supplier of quirky, funny and memorable hen and stag do t-shirts which are guaranteed to go down well on that special night out. They supply the highest quality garments for a reasonable price and they also provide a service which allows the customer to take control with what they want their t-shirts to look like.

AK Promotions have a highly experienced graphics team who are always willing to help with the design that the customer wants by making sure every final detail is perfect before printing.

For more information on how to get your own personalized stag and hen night t-shirt go to http://www.akpromotions.com/content_page.php?content=henstag

Anil Kenth

AK Promotions UK Ltd

Beacon House Hampton Street Hockley Birmingham UK B19 3LN