(Newswire.net – 23 January 2013) Woods Cross, UT -- NW Artisan Hardware recently opened for business as a seller of quality sliding door hardware. Owners Daniel Wright and Chase Norton have been following the trends in door hardware for many years and founded this company in response to demand for stylish and modern sliding hardware for doors. According to Wright and Norton their company offers sliding door hardware for any door and takes this unique door décor away from the traditional shed and exterior building and brings it indoors to highlight any door in the home.

The hardware offered is hand-crafted and custom made to fit almost any door. The pieces are made entirely of steel and are able to withstand any condition no matter if they are inside or outside. What Wright and Norton offer that similar companies do not is a focus on customization. They deliver a unique and custom door hardware design based on the customer's own needs and desires. The company also manufactures and distributes all of their products in the United States. With the growing popularity of design shows Wright and Norton saw a need within the industry to offer the same doors these shows were installing at a better price than they could find in the market currently.

Currently the company offers secure hinges, V-Groove sliding hardware and vintage sliding door hardware via their website. Visitors to the site can browse the current catalog and order directly from the site. The website also offers images that give the potential customer an idea of what each piece of hardware looks like installed on both internal and external doors. What many find particularly helpful are the installation instructions that are available on the website as a simply PDF download. This saves the customer time and the frustration of trying to figure out how to install the hardware they have just purchased. The company's products have already proven to be very popular and according to Wright and Norton they will be adding more items in the near future.
