

Roofers On Alert for the Next Big Storm Season

Sandra Spring February 28, 2013

Roofers expecting another active storm season

Roofers are expecting another active storm season in the Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana areas and the threat of another Big Storm is always lurking.

(Newswire.net -- February 28, 2013) Dallas, TX -- The severe weather season is upon us and the hurricane season is not far away. The first official tornado of 2013 was reported in Southern Louisiana on January 10' one day later than the first official tornado of 2012 that touched down in the Houston.

Dr. Greg Forbes is the severe weather expert for The Weather Channel. Currently Dr. Forbes is predicting an increased threat of tornadoes beginning in March and extending through May for Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana soon to be followed by Hurricane season beginning in June.

Along with the storms come damage to commercial and residential properties. Established roofing companies recommend using your local advertising resources and directories to find roofing contractors who are local to the area and have a reputation of following through with the repairs needed.

Usually after a storm hits, the streets of the damaged areas are crawling with roofers and debris removal companies with out of state plates trying to contract as many jobs as possible. As if being the victim of a storm isn't enough of a hassle to deal with, repairs that follow can turn into an even bigger issue which include dealing with insurance company estimates, finding the right contractor to schedule the work, and get the repairs done properly in a timely manner.

T&R Roofing in Sherman Texas has been in the roofing business for over 28 years and has built its reputation one customer at a time. They offer a Lifetime Warranty on labor and have licensed insurance adjustors on staff, to help with insurance claims. "If you find yourself the victim of storm damage, make sure to use a reputable company you can trust to take responsibility if the job doesn't go as planned," said Tommy Stapleton, owner of T&R Roofing.

If you are in a situation where you need a roofer be patient , do your research, make sure all materials are paid for, and be aware of contractors with out of state plates!

www.facebook.com/runitfreetx

find us on Google+