to attain the level of profitability in this digital age, three key factors would have to be actively involved, and these are website visitors, conversion and sales funnel. One leads to the other. In other words, the three form a chain that entrepreneurs need on order to make money online. Now, as a leading SEO firm, Best Internet Marketing Company in Los Angeles, offers free online exposure to entrepreneurs just 'hanging out' in their industries.

In a recent interview with Rudy Washington, the CEO of Best Internet Marketing Company Los Angeles, it's been revealed that many people who start out their businesses online often get stuck at certain points when they realize that most of their strategic efforts do not yield the expected results. In a bid to suggest the factors responsible for such disappointments, he asserts, saying, "Based on years of consultancy experience with several local business owners, it has been found out that many entrepreneurs are doing something wrong about their businesses. They don't seem to grasp the concept involved in online business development, and most especially in gaining popularity for their brands."

"In all probability, an average person, that is, an Internet user, needs to see you 21 times before he or she would know that you exist in your industry. In other words, for any business to achieve a significant recognition, there must be sufficient exposure that would leave an indelible mark in the minds of potential customers. It's for this reason that our company, Best Internet Marketing Company, now offers free online exposure to entrepreneurs just 'hanging out'," states Rudy Washington.

While introducing the SEO company, he says, "We are online media producers that help entrepreneurs to become local celebrities in their industries. At Best Internet Marketing Company, we focus on a strategic concept that is different from the status quo in the industry. It's been observed that most entrepreneurs and professionals only concentrate on 'what you do marketing', rather than 'who you do marketing'. That's why they don't get results," he notes.

Rudy Washington further declares, saying, "Who you are marketing is more and more needed with the prevalence of more and more online review sites today. The simple truth is that most people want to know who they are dealing with before they commit themselves to any offer. Thus, entrepreneurs need to get more exposure that tends to add more credibility to their business. To that effect, Best Internet Marketing Company is pleased to provide that online visibility to interested entrepreneurs at no cost."
