Flip flops for kids from Mottos

A new pair of flip flops for kids recently launched by Mottos, a company that deals in expressive tools and products for kids, is said to help reduce the chances of children experiencing pain caused from wearing flip flops.

(Newsire.net -- October 9, 2014) Princeville, HI -- With several medical practitioners, including those at the American Podiatric Medical Association, noting that flip flops may be bad for the feet, many parents are faced with trying to find comfortable but safe footwear for their kids. A new pair of flip flops for kids, recently launched by Mottos, a company that deals in expressive tools and products for kids, is said to help allay such fears.

Said to encourage active children to express themselves creatively, the flip flops are made from high quality materials which are durable so they won't break easily. They are designed to fit comfortably at the toes and have arch support to reduce the chance of unnecessary pressure on the foot. This support is not often found in similar flip flops for kids and is believed to be a great feature in reducing the chances of children experiencing pain due to wearing flip flops. On top of that, parents can use a handy sizing chart available on the Amazon store of the product to ensure that they get the correct fit for their child/children. This is important since many accidents, injuries and pain suffered by children while wearing flip flops is due to them wearing the incorrect size.

Mottos flip flops are not only considered to be safer than other flip flops for kids, they are also considered to be highly intuitive in that they encourage creative expression in kids. This is based on the easy snap on, snap off charms that they can use to customize the look of the shoe. Upon initial receipt, they are provided with two complimentary charms but can collect from dozens of other charms. Additionally, they can trade these charms with other kids, making the practice of wearing the flip flops possibly even more fun.

It is no secret that kids love wearing flip flops. This may be due to them being easy to slip on or off and their flexibility. However, it is recommended that parents choose ergonomically designed flip flops for kids in order to prevent any adverse effects in their children. Mottos flip flops for kids is thought to be among those that many are considering due to its innovative design.

"My kids live in flip flops and now they will only choose these," said Michelle S.
