If you™re one of the thousands of Los Angeles area residents looking for ways to secure a brighter financial future then you owe it to yourself to attend a free workshop sponsored by Rich Dad Education

(Newswire.net -- November 18, 2014) Cape Coral, Florida -- If you're one of the thousands of Los Angeles area residents looking for ways to secure a brighter financial future then you owe it to yourself to attend a free workshop sponsored by Rich Dad Education from December 10th through December 13th.

Rich Dad Education is a leader in providing financial education. This concentrated, enlightening workshop will focus on showing attendees ways they can become smarter about money, create additional income, build long-term cash flow, and prepare for a financially secure retirement regardless of their financial condition.

"Our workshop is designed to give students both the tools and an action plan that can help them move from a paycheck-to-paycheck lifestyle to one of true financial independence," said Anthony Humpage, CEO of Rich Dad Education. "Many Americans, especially the middle class, have been losing ground for nearly 30 years. Our goal is to turn their financial turmoil into financial tranquility through comprehensive financial education."

One of the goals of the workshop is to empower the average person to take control of their financial future by applying the powerful principles Rich Dad Education founder Robert Kiyosaki, outlined in his international bestseller Rich Dad Poor Dad. The free workshop is specifically designed to introduce people to multiple ways they can create additional streams of income for themselves no matter what the overall economy is doing. In addition, this free workshop will also demonstrate how they can change their lives by changing their thinking and why financial knowledge is the "new money."
