Overactive Bladder treatment

A brand new Overactive Bladder treatment website has been launched for medical professionals to inform them about the Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique®.

(Newswire.net -- December 3, 2014) St. Petersburg, Florida -- A brand new Overactive Bladder treatment website has been launched for medical professionals.

The purpose of this website is to specifically inform medical professionals about the patented Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique® and its patent-pending medical device, which is an all natural approach to the diagnosis and treatment of Overactive Bladder.

This exciting newly publicized patented non-invasive procedure offers a much needed genuine breakthrough in the diagnosis and treatment of Overactive Bladder, a condition that affects on average 10% of Americans including both men and women. This unique approach fills a major gap in the marketplace and offers patient's a proven rehabilitative procedure

This incredibly effective patented procedure and medical device was invented by Florida based acupuncture physician, Justin Mandel DOM AP. His Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique® is based on the theory that often times, someone's urinary bladder needs to be safely re-expanded because it can't fully fill up with urine due to a wide variety of reasons.

Included on the <http://www.BladderREEXPANSIONtechnique.com/> informative website are separate sections including details on the up and coming medical study, overwhelming support evidence including 14 different published medical studies, an about section, and a "For Patients" section. The "For Patients" section tells people who could be prospective candidates for the Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique® where to go to get more information about getting a one-on-one private consultation with Justin Mandel DOM AP

Medical professionals can sign up at the site to receive more information as developments continue to be made. Expected information planned on being released includes information on how to get CME units and eventually how medical professionals can be educated on how to perform special Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique® diagnostic procedures.

Acupuncture physician Justin Mandel DOM AP, its inventor, had this to say about the launch of this new informative website, "I am happy to finally see information become accessible to medical professionals on the Bladder RE-EXPANSION Technique®. This website provides exposure to medical professionals for those interested in discovering more about it. I am especially eager to release information as updates take place so interested practitioners can find out more as developments happen.

It will genuinely be exciting to see how much interest by the medical community will be generated beyond what has already taken place. Because so many people suffer from this bothersome condition, the potential is that this can help hundreds of thousands if not millions of people world wide.
