Critical HVAC System Components To Service and Maintain

The AC Filters

Experience shows that most homeowners fail to timely and properly replace their HVAC system filters and this is one of the leading causes of air conditioning repairs and system breakdowns. Dirty filters become clogged filters and this places stress on the entire system because it hinders normal airflow and reduces your AC system's efficiency significantly.

According to the Department of Energy, "With normal airflow obstructed, air that bypasses the filter may carry dirt directly into the evaporator coil and impair the coil's heat-absorbing capacity. Replacing a dirty, clogged filter with a clean one can lower your air conditioner's energy consumption by 5% to 15%." AC system airflow obstruction is one of the leading causes of emergency breakdowns on your AC system and can certainly lead to other damage as the clogged system is stressed while in use wearing down the entire system at a higher rate than normal. Don't wait for an emergency AC repair need, call AirTime today to get your HVAC system maintenance done utilizing our off-season special.

Cleaning the AC Unit, System Coils and Drain Lines

It is really important to keep the area around the outside unit clean and free from landscaping, brush and debris is an important part of regular maintenance. When our AirTime AC technician arrives at your home, this will be one of the first areas the HVAC technician will address. We will clean any/all debris around the unit as most outside units tend to collect debris and brush on a fairly regular basis. Keeping this area clean is an easy but often overlooked step but one that any good AC repair company will analyze quickly on first inspection.

During an AirTime AC System Maintenance call, we also inspect and clean the system coils and drain lines. Clean coils and drain lines will allow your unit to run efficient and will also make your home feel more comfortable. Not to mention, an efficient unit keeps your electric bill as low as possible. At AirTime, we highly recommend you have a professional AC repair company conduct a bi-annual maintenance and AC system tune up.
