Recipes for Cold Days

On the market for some flavorful dishes? This article will give you nine different recipes for cold days to enjoy with your family.

(NewsWire.net -- November 17, 2018) -- What are the best recipes for cold days? Well, there are many delicious winter recipes for rainy and cold days. Luckily, we have compiled nine great recipes; from roasts, soups to stews – just the perfect remedies to the winter blues.

Recipes for Cold Days

1. Basic Meatloaf with Topping (Optional)

Coming first on our list is a simple-to-make meatloaf. This recipe is not only tasty but comforting as well. You have an option to add barbecue sauce or ketchup as a topping. The recipe works great when you serve it with green beans, corn or mashed potatoes.

2. Cheeseburger Soup

For those who love soups, they can make this cheeseburger soup. Use cheese (of course), milk, lean ground beef, and potatoes to make this dish. Make it wholeheartedly and you'll love its taste. If you like, use crumbled bacon (cooked) as the topping. Creations in Cuisine Catering recommends that this cheeseburger soup be served with crusty bread or biscuits.

3. Beef & Guinness Stew

During warm seasons, you can cook beef stew and take it just the way it is. But during cold days, you must incorporate something extra - Guinness stout. This will thicken your beef stew. You can serve your beef stew along with Irish soda bread or cheddar bacon scones.

4. Creole Jambalaya

The great thing about Creole Jambalaya is that you can make it using different kinds of meat. You can either use turkey, sliced leftover pork, ham, or chicken. If need be, you can put a little shrimp – a few minutes before it is ready.

5. Braised Chicken Legs

Another recipe to make during cold days is these braised chicken legs. You can flavor this one using curry powder and coconut milk. More so, you can add some ginger and tomatoes – you know- just to add more taste.

6. Southern Pinto Beans

Proteins are sources of warmth during cold days. And this recipe, made of pinto beans, is rich in the proteins you need to keep you warm. Use a slow cooker to make this recipe. Further, add some seasonings and ham hocks to it.

7. Chicken Tortilla Soup

Besides heavy meals, soups too can keep you warm during cold days. Chicken Tortilla soup, for instance, is full of flavor. To garnish this soup, you can use tortilla chips or fry some corn tortilla.

8. Lamb Shoulder Chops (braised)

This is another recipe to make during cold seasons. Use herbs and red wine to braise these lamb shoulder chops to moist perfection.

9. Pork Rib (Roasted)

This roasted pork rib is an inclusive meal – just the perfect dinner option to make on a holiday or weekend. You can combine this recipe with red-skinned potatoes or fingerling potatoes.

As you can see, the list of recipes for cold days is pretty endless. That leaves you with lots of options to enjoy the winter season and stay warm!
