(Zealwire.net -- August 12, 2013) Los Angeles, CA --

Zoloft, a medication prescribed for depression and anxiety in both children and adults, has been found to cause serious side effects. Trusted by millions of users for years, recent findings show that instead of helping those who suffer from depression, the drug may have permanently harmed them and their children. The most serious problems came from doctors prescribing Zoloft to pregnant women. Children born of mothers who took Zoloft had a higher risk of serious birth defects, including:

- Zoloft PPHN (persistent pulmonary hypertension of the newborn)
- Zoloft cleft palate
- Zoloft craniosynostosis
- Zoloft omphalocele
- Zoloft neural tube defects

First put on the market in 1991, Zoloft was one of the most popular SSRI's prescribed to pregnant women. Now the drug has been tied to birth defects and other serious problems. Adults and children taking Zoloft may develop suicidal thoughts, weight gain, and aggression in addition to many other symptoms. A number of class action lawsuits have been filed against Pfizer, the maker of Zoloft, as a result of these conditions, so if you have suffered from serious problems related to the drug, contact us for a professional evaluation of your case.
