

Shellie Hunt Supports Women Business Leaders at The National Women's Political Caucus

Chris Ryan October 07, 2013

Shellie Hunt

The National Women's Political Caucus is a bipartisan, multicultural grassroots organization dedicated to increasing women's participation in the political field and creating a political power base designed to achieve and empower new women business lead

(Newswire.net -- October 7, 2013) --Houston

Shellie Hunt, will be supporting women business leaders as she chairs the EMMA awards at the upcoming National Womens Political Caucus on October 24th. As a business strategist and a successful serial entrepreneur Shellie Hunt plays a significant role in supporting the women's role in the work force. With strong leadership and connections Shellie brings a influence to women that not only empowers women to take action in their businesses, but their communities as well.

<http://www.nwpc.org/home>

Shellie is the Founder of the following organizations that strongly support developing women business leaders into there potential and provides an avenue for people to pursue their passion and give back to the community.

SuccessIsByDesign: <http://www.successisbydesign.com/>

The Women of Global Change: <http://www.thewomenofglobalchange.com/>

About the National Women's Political Caucus:

The National Women's Political Caucus is a bipartisan, multicultural grassroots organization dedicated to increasing women's participation in the political field and creating a political power base designed to achieve and empower new women business leaders focusing on equality for all women. Founded in 1971, the NWPC prides itself in increasing the number of pro-choice women elected and appointed into office every year. Through recruiting, training and financial donations, the NWPC provides support to women candidates running for all levels of office regardless of political affiliation. In addition, hundreds of state and local chapters reach out to women in communities across the country to better assist them in their dreams of being elected into office. The NWPC strives to break the glass ceiling, which restricts a woman's ability to climb the political ladder, one crack at a time.