New Graduates

The Skin Institute and Mary Ronnow, the school founder, congratulated Esthetician Students who graduated from The Skin Institute today. It is a well-known international school, 20% of which are immigrants from different countries.

(Newswire.net -- May 2, 2014) St. George, Utah - According to the school owner, Mary Ronnow, and the director of education, Kelli Charlton, graduation is one of the biggest events at the Skin Institute. At this event new graduates always get inspired by instructors and guest speakers who are true leaders. “Today’s graduation was no different”, said Mary Ronnow.

At the opening ceremony Mary said, that The Skin Institute not only taught students to be great estheticians with outstanding skills, it also changed their lives and lives of the clients who came to this beauty place for pampering.

Kelli Charlton, director of education, was very emotional. She said she watched these students grow for 8 months and turn into very knowledgeable professionals who would potentially become a huge asset for any spa. She also said they learned how to truly connect to their clients and feel their energy to make clients experience the unforgettable.

Cindy Clemens, Life Coach and retired attorney, inspired new graduates with her life story and great quotes from Steve Jobs and Dr. Seuss. Her message to new estheticians was: “Take lots of action and don’t worry about connecting dots. Don’t be afraid of mistakes, don’t dwell on them and move forward. If you want to be great you have to take a risk.”

New Master Esthetician Amber Barta said she is excited to start a new career. She said she got outstanding education. She learned cutting edge skills and technologies in beauty and cosmetology. Also she was impressed by opportunity to have an access to World Renowned plastic surgeon Dr.Patel and dermatologist Dr.Bishop. She said that the school went beyond traditional job preparation. Students had an opportunity to learn more from the guest speaker, the Media Marketing expert, about marketing and sales.
