Creative Care Expands Mental Health and Addiction Diagnoses

Tyler Collins July 18, 2014

Creative Care uses dual diagnosis to work with patients in the areas of both drug or alcohol addiction and mental health, making both treatments more successful.

(Newswire.net -- July 18, 2014) Malibu, California -- Creative Care is a treatment center in Malibu, California, that takes a holistic approach to diagnosing and treating the underlying causes of addiction. With dual diagnosis, Creative Care professionals are able to help patients deal with both addiction and the mental health issues that may lead to the addictive behavior.

Dual diagnosis, as seen at http://www.creativecareinc.com/dual-diagnosis/, is the act of diagnosing both addictive behavior and the underlying mental health issues that may led to addiction. Without dual diagnosis, addiction treatment as seen at http://www.creativecareinc.com/ may not have as great a chance of success since the root problems are never address. Creative Care, an addiction treatment center in Malibu, California, uses dual diagnosis methods to identify and treat the true causes of addiction.

Dual diagnosis for addiction as seen at http://www.creativecareinc.com/our-program/ is not a new concept, but Creative Care Malibu is one of the first addiction treatment centers to put dual diagnosis into full practice as part of its medical protocol. When patients enter the treatment program, diagnosis begins to identify the true root causes of addiction. Post-traumatic stress disorder, bipolar disorder and depressive disorders are all considered as part of the reason behind addiction. In many cases, when these disorders are uncovered, true healing and treatment can take place.

Creative Care Malibu works with patients and families to create healthy treatment plans that take into account all possible reasons for addiction, including mental health disorders. For more information, contact Creative Care today.
