Movie stars and other celebrities are not exempted from identity theft. In fact there have been an increase in celebrity identity theft over the years. Celebrities are being targeted by hackers because of their great amount of wealth.

(Newswire.net -- November 8, 2014) Pittsburg, KS -- In 2001, a restaurant busboy was able to steal money from one of daytime's favourite TV show host Oprah Winfrey. When he was finally caught he was found with a Forbes magazine that had the list of persons he intended to steal from.

The famous fresh prince of Bell-air, Will Smith, was also a victim of identity theft. His hacker, Carlos Lomax attempted to open multiple credit accounts buying things in the actor's name. He also cost Atlanta Hawks basketball player Steve Smith $81, 000 in charges.

Tiger Woods, Michael Jordan, Bill Gates, 50 cent, Steven Spielberg are just a few other famous celebrities that have been a victim of celebrity theft. So just how can one avoid getting their identity stolen? With the increase of identity theft cases companies are creating identity theft proof products that can help to prevent identities from being stolen.

The latest technology is the RFID blocking wallet. According to identityblock.com, Radio-Frequency Identification (RFID) is a wireless communication system used to transfer data from a tag attached to an object for the purposes of automatic identification. The cards provide a different way of payment that requires no contact with your credit card or ID.

An advantage of using a rfid blocking wallet is that it protects your Smart cards. It must be a hard reality to face being a victim of identity theft. The thief simply walks away with someone's Smart card information. The rfid blocking wallet prevents these thieves from reading credit card information and committing fraud in your name.

Another advantage of using the rfid blocking wallet is pretty affordable. The cost online for a product like this ranges from about $15 to $40 which is a pretty affordable price considering the major damage that identity theft causes.
