Sammco Appraisal Group

Sammco Appraisal Group, a professional real estate appraisal agency in Orange County, California, has launched a new website to promote its business.

(Newswire.net -- July 3, 2015) Fullerton, CA --Sammco Appraisal Group's leader Kevin Howell has been in the real estate appraisal business for more than 20 years, and he understands that information must be available instantly in order to serve his clients.

Therefore, the company has launched a new website that includes all of the facts and resources necessary for clients to find information quickly and avail themselves of the company's services.

This professional Orange County property appraiser as seen at <http://www.orangecountyappraisers.org/> has always assisted the people of southern California with effective and efficient service, but the new website will do even more. The new website not only offers complete information on all types of appraisals, including divorce, bankruptcy, estate, bail bonds, financial planning, PMI removal, specialty, equine, short sale, tax assessment and FSBO, but also offers information about the company's home measurement services and rush real estate appraisals. The company's real estate appraisals are always in compliance with the best practices advocated by professional real estate appraisal groups such as the Appraisers Association of America as seen at <http://www.appraisersassociation.org/>.

The new website also features a blog that deals with topics such as FHA financing requirements and other issues surrounding the real estate appraisal of residential and commercial real estate. There is also a video resource page where clients can learn more about real estate appraisals and find answers to questions. Kevin Howell, the leader of Sammco Appraisal Group, is a gifted and sought-after speaker, and a page of the website is devoted to his speaking engagements and how to book him for an event. Finally, there is an easy contact form so that clients can quickly get in touch with the company and schedule a free consultation or real estate appraisal.

For more information about the company or to schedule a real estate appraisal, visit the new website.

About Sammco Appraisal Group: The team of experienced local appraisers at Sammco Appraisal Group offer superior customer service, accurate property appraisals and quick turnaround on all assignments. Kevin Howell has more than 20 years of experience and has conducted more than 15,000 real estate appraisals. He is also a licensed realtor and investor and a regular contributor to several national real estate appraisal publications.
