Marketechs Design Studio expands operations to North Carolina.

Design and Fabrication specialists Marketechs brings their unique brand of service to the Southeast with the opening of a new regional sales office.

(Newswire.net -- March 16, 2016) Hampstead, North Carolina -- Marketechs recently announced the opening of a new regional sales office in North Carolina. Located at 139 Cove Side Lane in Hampstead, the new office is part of an ongoing expansion process that is aimed at bringing the company's unique brand of services to more clients in the Southeast. Already one of the foremost names in the design and fabrication industry in the region, the move is expected to boost the company's industry-wide acclaim even further, while at the same time enabling the delivery of a wider range of services.

The opening of the regional sales office in Hampstead addresses the needs of the company's ever-expanding client base. Over the years, the company has made its mark in the design and fabrication business with its proven expertise in university branding displays and tradeshow exhibits. This is in fact the main thrust of the new office, in light of the increasing demand for these particular services in the area.

The new office will be headed by Chuck Eldridge, who joined Marketechs in November 2015. In addition to overseeing all sales and operations, Eldridge will also be assisting in the company's continuing expansion campaign. Prior to joining the firm, Eldridge was the owner and operator of his own full-service sign business, which was a hugely successful venture.

With a genuinely creative approach and savvy business sense, Eldridge brings his unique talents to Marketechs in the service of its expanding client base in the Southeast. With his exemplary background in sales and unwavering commitment to delivering the highest quality of service possible, Eldridge is definitely an invaluable addition to the company's workforce.

Marketechs Design Studio is itself a proven industry leader, with a stellar track record of accomplishments in design and fabrication. With focus, dedication, and a company-wide emphasis on excellence, the innovative design firm consistently earns praise from customers as well as industry peers for its unique approach to providing state-of-the-art design solutions. Equally adept at reinventing, renovating, and building from scratch, the firm has earned a renown that continues to inspire excellence and encourage creativity.

Ed Zielinski, VP of Sales at Marketechs is especially emphatic of the need to maintain high standards: "Marketechs is committed to being the preeminent design and fabrication firm in the Eastern United States," he said. "(We are) focused on building trusting client relationships, and the opening of our new (regional) sales office is just one more step toward that commitment."
