Fine art appraiser, Jerome Bengis, discusses the selected prints by Salvador Dali, as offered by Dali Art Web for 2017.

(Newswire.net -- February 10, 2017) Coral Springs, FL -- Fine art collectors hoping for a once in a lifetime chance at owning a Dali or Picasso piece may soon be able to make bids on selected pieces by those celebrated artists in 2017. South Florida fine art appraiser, Jerome Bengis, knows that this is a truly rare opportunity for collectors and art aficionados. The appraiser, who has conducted over 30,000 artwork appraisals for corporate and individual clients throughout his career, believes that the artworks for sale in this special would be a wonderful addition to any collection. "Signed editions by Dali and Picasso will only increase in value as the years go by," says Jerome. "These limited-edition prints represent smart investments that also happen to be lovely to view." The Dali and Picasso artworks are on offer by Dali Art Web, a South Florida-based dealer that specializes in work by the internationally-acclaimed late surrealist, Salvador Dali. The pieces selected for sale have been chosen due to the company's efforts at downsizing the collection they have amassed over forty years in the fine arts business. All reasonable bids will be considered by the firm. Among the pieces are "Libra", a Dali-signed lithograph from Dali's Zodiac Series, and "The Tower, Trilogy of Love" a lithograph that is one of only 100 prints. Pablo Picasso's "Femme Et Minotaure" is also one of the featured art pieces; this work is a limited-edition signed lithograph numbered 43/500 and originating from the Marina Picasso collection. All of the artworks are framed in museum-quality framework, which can be removed for shipping if desired by the winning bidder. "These are breathtaking works," adds Jerome. "These artists were true legends of the surrealist movement."
