Commercial Roofing Project in Progress

Pacific West Roofing & Exteriors remains the top consumer choice for residential and commercial roofing projects and has expanded to meet demand.

(Newswire.net -- February 18, 2017) Vancouver, BC -- The popular local Greater Vancouver roofing company, Pacific West Roofing & Exteriors, has so far in 2016 and entering 2017, experienced a surge in growth in new customers for services such as new roof installations, roof repairs, home renovations and other home repair & maintenance services. In spite of the stiff competition in this sector, the company has managed to maintain its lead and is known as “the most referred” in Vancouver, BC. Having provided these services to both residential and commercial clients for over 20+ years now, this company has built a respected name due to their quality of workmanship. They often say that they “fix what the last guy tried to fix.”

With the coming spring season, and the wild winter weather that Vancouver residents have experienced with record snowfalls and subsequent meltoff, the company is making preparations for an influx of business from the ever-increasing numbers of customers in need of roof repairs due to roof leaks and damage. They’ve recently hired additional staff to handle the demand and are well-positioned to continue a strong 2017. Those who want to avoid the trouble of leaking roofs or to overhaul the roof altogether have the confidence of receiving the best service from Pacific West Roofing & Exteriors, where they always adhere to best practices and industry leading methods. Now is the perfect time for roofs to be inspected in preparation for the wet weather and to avoid costly repairs due to neglect. Winter is known to put extra weight on roofs from snow and ice - hence the need for inspection to avoid any further problems that can be easily avoided by taking action now.

This Vancouver roof contractor offers a complete range of roofing and re-roofing services for all clients new and repeat in the area. They ensure leaks are sealed, and use infrared imaging to find hidden leaks and mold or rot that would otherwise go undetected for years to give clients the optimal protection from the elements and harsh weather. They regularly receive new business referred by past clients which means that their past customers are happy. The company has the expertise to handle any type of roofing material clients may want to be used including the newest roofing technologies. Their services are very affordable and they often save customers more money than they were expecting.

Pacific West Roofing & Exteriors has provided impeccable roofing services to customers in Greater Vancouver for more than two decades and counting.
