The resveratrol supplement of Divine Bounty contains a combination of therapeutic ingredients, such as extracts of green tea, red wine, grape seed, and Acai fruit. (Newswire.net -- September 25, 2017) Orlando, FL -- Pain is just one of the common symptoms of the condition. However, there are others such as inflammation, which is normally treated with some anti-inflammatory medications.

Resveratrol could be an anti-inflammatory remedy for arthritis. Inflammation has long been thought to largely contribute to the development of various diseases and disorders.

It happens when the body tries to protect itself against threats. While inflammation is a normal part of the body’s ability to defend itself, it becomes problematic when it gets chronic.

Individuals who suffer from a type of inflammation that is beyond normal typically turn to the use of certain medications, such as NSAIDs. Nonsteroidal Anti-inflammatory Drugs are the type of medication that are typically used by individuals with arthritis.

These pharmaceutical drugs temporarily ease pain and fight inflammation. Since their effects are temporary, sufferers may need to take them again during the next pain attacks.

What arthritis sufferers should keep in mind is that using these pharmaceutical drugs frequently or on a long-term basis can result in various undesirable consequences. There have been a variety of side effects linked with the use of these medications.

Thus, it would be beneficial for arthritis sufferers to turn to natural remedies. One is resveratrol, which according to studies could help offer relief to inflammatory symptoms of osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis.

RA and OA are two of the most common arthritic conditions. As a matter of fact in the United States alone, around 27 million individuals in the United States suffer from osteoarthritis.

It has even been found that this condition is the top cause of disability in individuals 65 years old and above. Arthritic conditions such as osteoarthritis could result in painful inflammation.

Pain is particularly intense during activities, which add pressure on the joints. This is why many are turning to the use of pain medications.

There has been a growing popularity of the use of natural alternatives in individuals with arthritis. This is due to the widespread scare of side effects linked with the use of pharmaceutical drugs.

Researchers from German laboratories confirmed that the anti-inflammatory activity of resveratrol is beneficial for the human cartilage cells. There have even been other studies that demonstrated the balancing effects of resveratrol on immune system response. These studies used animal models of human arthritis.

For instance, in a study, resveratrol was injected into the cartilage as well as the synovial membrane of the knee joints in rabbits. It was found that the treatment has significantly prevented the destruction of cartilage and membrane inflammation. It is worth remembering that these improvements were not seen in the untreated control group.

There are various food sources of resveratrol. This antioxidant has long been thought to offer a variety of amazing health benefits. One of the most reputable resveratrol supplements today come from Divine Bounty.
There are many resveratrol supplements available in the market. However, it is important to remember that there are only a few that offers safe, pure, and potent resveratrol capsules.
