(Newswire.net -- November 14, 2017) Orlando, FL -- Adaptogenic herbs like Rhodiola Rosea have long been studied by many clinicians and researchers. In addition to the significant role it could play for one's health, it could also aid those who want to achieve a healthy weight.

Rhodiola Rosea is found to be a fat-burning therapeutic remedy. Today, obesity is considered to be an epidemic in many areas around the globe. There are many factors that contribute to the increasing prevalence of obesity, such as practicing an unhealthy diet and lifestyle.

This herb, on the other hand, is also known as the golden root. It is grown in the most inhospitable areas of the world, such as barren lands and cold mountains. It contains plant chemicals that have been found to offer powerful resistance against environmental stressors. This is exactly why this herb is known to offer stress-fighting effects.

According to some experts, Rhodiola Rosea could aid in the body's ability to burn stored fat as fuel. It contains rosavin, which is an active compound that has been found to trigger a fat burning response in the body.

This active compound works by stimulating the hormone-sensitive lipase, which is an enzyme that has the ability to breakdown fat stored in the adipose tissue or the belly area.

In human clinical studies, it was found that the combination of Rhodiola Rosea extract and moderate exercise increased the breakdown of belly fat.

In a placebo-controlled study conducted at Georgian State Hospital, it was found that the use of this natural remedy resulted in a mean weight loss of 19 pounds, which equates to an 11 percent reduction in body fat.

There were 130 overweight participants in the study. It is further worth mentioning that in the placebo group, there was only 8 pounds of loss. The researchers suggest that using this herb with exercise could accelerate the weight loss process.

This herb could be obtained by using Divine Bounty Rhodiola Rosea, which many consumers believe to be highly therapeutic and potent. This amazing formula is carefully crafted in a Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) facility in the United States.

This formula is pure and free from contaminants like pesticides, molds, and fungus as well as nasty ingredients like fillers, additives, GMOs, and preservatives.

It is made to deliver the therapeutic goodness of this amazing herb and is manufactured according to the strict guidelines and high standards set by the FDA. What makes this natural remedy even more beneficial is that it comes with a 100 percent customer satisfaction guarantee.
