The new services are available now, and provide clients peace of mind both before closing with the opportunity to get a repair pricer report and having HomeBinder as the electronic home management and maintenance tool, all while they own the home.

More information can be found at: <https://westcliffinspections.com>.

The site explains that Westcliff Inspections is one of the most highly rated home inspection companies in all of Fort Worth. Each inspection comes with a warranty to keep the client protected, and the team is fully certified by InterNACHI, the world's largest inspector association.

The company is run owned and operated by Jeff Blowers, a licensed real estate inspector. Jeff and his team have inspected Fort Worth and surrounding area homes for many years, offering clients the best in experience, passion and skill.

The new service deliverables are targeted at home buyers, home sellers and real estate professionals, and will provide peace of mind and negotiating leverage to secure the best possible final purchase price of their new home. Then, once in their new home, they can count on receiving reminders for regularly scheduled maintenance around the home through HomeBinder.

Clients can feel confident in the knowledge that their interests will be well looked after throughout the home inspection process. The team's home inspection provides clients with all the information they need to make an informed buying decision about the property they are looking to purchase.

Clients get both an oral report on site, and a detailed, electronic report following the home inspection. The team is compiled of trained and seasoned home inspection professionals who pride themselves on high quality service.

Westcliff Inspections states, "We are excited to be able to provide these additional deliverables to our highly acclaimed home inspection report, and to be able to do this without any additional cost to our clients."
